THE TOWN AND COUNTY.

What Our Reporters See, Hear and Think—People Who Come, Go and Stay—A Little of Everything.

Mr. Lonnie Waters is studying law under Col. H. G. Everett.

Miss Eliza Martin is expected to return from her Florida visit next Saturday.

Miss Jennie Roach opened school in the Academy last Monday morning with an enrollment of thirty pupils.

Mr. George Adams, a young man from South Carolina, is visiting our town, and is a guest of the family of Mr. Bud Mathews.

Miss Minnie Roberts returned to her home the early part of this week, after a few days pleasantly spent with the Misses Mathews.

Miss Maggie Green, who had been spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. Cumming, returned to her home, near Excelsior, last Saturday.

Mr. Owen Mathews, one of our young friends, reached his home in Statesboro last Friday, after having a pleasant journey through the country from South Carolina.

Walter Reaves wants everybody to come around and take a squint at his new "cook shop." He takes great pride in pointing out the beauties of its architecture.

Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Jenkins have returned to town after a few days' visit in the family of Mr. Hiram Franklin, and have secured quarters with the family of Esq. Rountree.

We are sorry to learn of the serious illness of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Mikell, with the grip. However, the attending physician, Dr. Holland, reports them as slightly improving.

Just received: A new lot of hats. The latest styles that could be had. C. W. Enneis.

Mr. Henry Lassiter, one of the old citizens of this county, and whose health has been somewhat shaky, was this morning ed as having passed away at his home near Nellwood.

Mr. Isaac Jacobson has taken one of Dr. White's stores now in course of construction, and will go on to New York within the next few weeks for the purpose of laying in a stock of goods.

Messrs. R. F. Lester, J. C. Jones, Dr. McLean and the Times editor, "we four, and no more," have an invitation to go out to Mr. Ben Atwood's mill pond tomorrow to join in a big fishing frolic. The weather bureau is respectfully invited to turn on a little more heat for the occasion.

Miss Ada Edwards is making up a school, and will call her classes together shortly in the Fields Hall. Mrs. Wilkinson is also endeavoring to secure the charge of a few of the smaller children of the town, and will probably teach at her own home. This would make five schools in our town.

Our young friend, Mr. W. P. Ennis, has engaged to teach, at Mill Ray, and will open a five-months term there next Monday. Mr. Ennis was assistant teacher in the Pembroke Academy last summer, since which he has taken a three-months' course under Prof. J. S. Davis, in the Statesboro Academy. He now goes out prepared to do better work than before.

I am offering my winter line of Gent's Underwear at a reduced price. C. W. ENNEIS.

Nick Foss talks of trying tobacco growing the present year, and will send to Quincy, Fla., and procure the seed of the variety that has been grown so profitably in upper Florida for several years past. He thinks of putting in eight acres of "the weed." The Times feels impelled to remark that one-half the cotton lands of Bulloch county might be more profitably cultivated in tobacco.

Mr. Harkness having taken territory in the western part of the state, with headquarters at Columbus, Rev. A. M. Johnson now has entire control of the New Home Sewing Machine Company's interests in this locality. From his headquarters in this town, Mr. Johnson has convenient access to a large and profitable field; and representing, as he does, the most popular machine that has ever been introduced to the public, during the present year Mr. Johnson confidently expects to fill an increased number of orders.

Mr. R. W. DeLoach, who accidentally shot himself in the eye some time ago, is suffering a great deal of pain from his wound. He will go to Atlanta soon to submit his case to Dr. Calhoun of that city, and apprehend that the wounded member will have to be removed. He thinks there are no lodges in the bull of the eye.

Twenty-two white and six colored applicants appeared before the examining board last Saturday. Some of these announced outside that they were not after teachers' license, but just desired to find out "where they were at," with the view of probably making a little extra effort to reach the goal another term. If each of these applicants had to "chip in" his or her dollar before being examined, as is required by the Florida school law, Prof. Hagin would not have had his hands quite so full.

C. W. Enneis is now closing out his winter line of dress goods. Cashmeres, Gingham, Flannel and Calicos at cost. Also Yellow Homespun, Bleaching, Checks, Bed-ticking, etc., at a reduced price. If you want bargains in this line come at once.

The alliance rally planned for Statesboro, and which should have come off yesterday, appears to have been a failure. The district lecturer, Mr. H. L. Smith, came over from Emanuel the day before, loaded to the muzzle, but the game failed to turn up. Our reporter saw Mr. Smith on his way to the train this morning, and from him gathered the information that the disappointment occurred from the fact of the alliance organ of the county failing to take notice of the intended gathering. The few alliegemen who did turn out, secured their knowledge of the meeting from some outside source. Another effort will be made later, with the hope of having a better understanding.

Miss Anna Rustin came in from the country last Monday on her first visit to town, and will spend a couple of weeks with her brother Mr. W. E. Rustin, of the Rustin House.

Mr. and Mrs. Cumming and Miss Emma Griner organized a fish-fry at Barnes's mill pond last Tuesday, but the weather went back on the occasion. Charlie went out early in the morning, however, and succeeded in taking in twenty-eight fine fish during the day, and the ladies, who followed later, declared the occasion to have been quite enjoyable.

While Mr. Jack Lee was attending a party at the residence of Mr. W. J. Strickland, one night during the holidays, his horse became frightened at the fire-works and broke his halter, taking to the woods with the buggy harness on. During the night it rained so that the animal could not be tracked the next morning, and since that time all searches for him have proved fruitless. See advertisement in the TIMES.

Sereven's Democrats on Top.

Sylvania, Ga., Jan. 10.—The untimely death of Sereven county still retains its place in the house of its fathers. The populists were snowed under again in the election for ordinary yesterday. Notwithstanding the rain, about 2,000 votes were polled, and George H. Sharp was elected over W. L. Mathews, the leader of the populists in the county. The democrats are jubilant over the result, for it was an important election in its influence on the political future in this county. The populists turned out in force, and it was a hard fought contest.

The above is taken from the Savannah News of this morning. We learn from Mr. Pope Solomons, who was in Sylvania at the time of the election, and who remained there until full reports were in from the country precincts, that the democratic majority was only 24. Mr. Solomons also informs us that this narrow margin was the result of a surrender beforehand on the part of many democrats, who thought it useless to contend against the odds and remained at home on Tuesday. Doubtless they now feel like administering to themselves their deserved kicking.

DEAD.

Having anxiously watched the course of his sickness since he first became dangerously ill, we were not unprepared for the announcement that reached our ears early Monday morning last that Russie Hall was dead. Swinging between life and death for ten days previously, he quietly breathed his last at 6 o'clock of the morning referred to, surrounded by several friends and in the presence of a grief-stricken family. Our sincere sympathies, with those of the whole community, are specially extended to the parents of the young man, whose heart-strings may be truly said to have been entwined about their handsome, manly, devoted son, who had reached the state of free manhood but two or three months ago.

The funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church at 4 o'clock of Monday, from which a large concourse accompanied the bier to the cemetery. As a token of respect to the deceased and sympathy for the bereaved family, every store in town closed its doors from 3 to 5 o'clock.

GRIP'S CARNAGE.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathews returned from South Carolina last night accompanied by two of the orphaned children of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Cartledge, and bearing one of the saddest stories it has ever been our office to repeat.

About two weeks before Christmas Mrs. Mathews's brother-in-law, Mr. S. C. Cartledge, was taken ill with the grip, and died from its effects on Thursday, Dec. 21, at his home in Batesburg, leaving a wife and seven children. In attendance at his bedside and at his burial were his two brothers, Jerry and James, the latter a physician.

About six days later Mr. Jerry Cartledge died at his home in Johnston, leaving a wife and one child, and only a day or so later Mrs. Cartledge followed her husband. About the same time Dr. Jas. Cartledge died at his home in Greenwood, in the midst of physical strength, his throat swelling so much as to choke him to death.

About one week afterward, or on Friday, Mrs. Mathews's sister followed her husband, making the fifth death in the family within fifteen days.

NOT SO BAD

A slight "smash-up" in Mr. Averitt's mill Tuesday morning has necessitated his buying a new engine and putting himself in a position to avoid future serious hindrances from slight accidents. The crank-pins of his engine gave way, when the shaft shot endwise into the steam-chest, completely wrecking it. Mr. Averitt took the train for Augusta that afternoon, with a view to getting a new steam-chest. He did not find what he wanted in that line, but he purchased a new 20-horse-power engine, which came in this evening, and will be in place, ready to go to sawing again, by Saturday morning. The new engine is one that was on exhibition at the Augusta fair, the manufacture of the Erie Engine Works, and Mr. Averitt regards his little accident as a small slice of good luck. He will have his old engine repaired, and keep it on hand to fall back on next time.

A CARD OF THANKS.

In our great bereavement we cannot forget dear and good friends who so kindly and anxiously administered and helped us to wait on our dear boy, Russie; but with all the care and attention of our physicians, Drs. Quattlebaum and Lane, our boy is no more. We cannot but thank dear, good friends, of whom we must mention G. S. Blackburn, A. J. Hagin, W. B. Addison; and there are many others whom we have not space to name. We must not forget to mention B. E. Turner, W. S. Prestorius, W. T. Smith and their wives, our daughters. We feel that Russie had every attention by all, parents, relatives and friends, and if he had an enemy we have yet to hear of it. Children and friends, accept our heartfelt thanks for every kindness.

MATT HALL.

WANTED—A good sawyer, Must be a sober man. No other need apply.
D. P. AVERITT.

THEY "RAKE" THE COMMITTEE.

We, the undersigned citizens being familiar with the location and needs of the "Panper Home" of Bulloch county, beg leave to dissent from the committee of last grand jury, Messrs. James Bland and A. Scarborough, Jr., relative to recent improvements made thereon by the Ordinary. We think, in the first place, in behalf of humanity and the unfortunate creatures who may be consigned to said home, that the improvement thereon is estimable. Those who have seen the home know that there are only two doors of about three feet in width to a ten-foot aisle, and in the summer time the heat is anything but pleasant in this aisle and in the building. The Ordinary only put the addition to the house after careful inspection and consideration of its need.

This intelligent committee of two say that the work on said building is only worth $25; that is more than the work cost. If they claim that the whole, work and material, is only worth $25, then we can show that the material and hauling it to the home cost more than that sum. When this intelligent committee of two say that the improvement is an injury to the building, then we invite every citizen of Bulloch county to go and inspect the same, and if nine out of every ten don't say it is an advantage to the building and inmates, then we will say our judgment is defective.

This intelligent committee of two say that this work was not received by a committee as the law directs. Will this intelligent committee point out that law? Now, in conclusion, we think that Messrs. Bland and Scarborough only wanted a little notoriety, and let us hope they got it. Why not this sagacious committee of two take upon themselves the authority of Lycurgus of ancient Greece, and say where all our money shall go?

Perhaps if some phrenologist was to pass this way hunting wisdom bumps, our two committeemen might be awarded a prize! As it is, we feel sure that, from the great "gobs" of wisdom that possess one of these men, and, as he is ever ready to serve his less fortunate neighbors with his wisdom and pen, ere long he will be called on to dictate another court-house.

W. O. CHAMBERLAIN, Editor Jones,
J. M. SMITH, O. W. Waters,
Z. T. DeLoach, M. C. Barnes,
J. A. Brannen, Jr., Charles Mickle,
Fred Hegmann, J. T. Allen.

And, in addition to the above, the committeemen, Messrs. Bland and Scarborough, say they found in the poor house a great "booger" in the shape of a boy picking fifty pounds of cotton a day, and not wearing fine clothes. If he ever picked over twenty-five pounds of cotton in a day, it was not here; and he had as good clothes on that day as I did. He had on a patched shirt; and my whole suit was patched. The boy says he did not tell Messrs. Bland and Scarborough that he picked the cotton, nor that he had no other clothes. Now, if these gentlemen wished to do the fair thing, why did they not ask about the boy's clothes? He had three suits at that time; two of them are here yet.

Mr. Bland examined my bond before coming here, to see what his duty was. I think the foreman of the grand jury had better have examined him to see if he was fit for a committeeman, for he did not appear to know but little, and all he did was behind the door, for he did not look after the public interest. At last April court, the whole grand jury came out and they made the closest and best examination that has ever been made. They took this same boy from head to foot, and were satisfied with his treatment. I think as Mr. Bland is so sympathetic he had better give part of his money to the poor, and subscribe less for the removal of the court house.

The Ordinary has been to the "Home" several times, has dined there, and always expressed himself as well satisfied with fare the inmates of the home were getting. So, when you come again, call on me and I will show you the clothes, and other things. Very truly,
J. A. WATERS.

SEE HERE!

While side talk has been so thick for the past two weeks, about schools, I have been closed in silence on account of neuralgia. I hope I am not too late. I will teach a free school, and furnish a comfortable room with a fire place. It seems that some do not know my condition; I need work. Those young girls here asking for schools are free; I am tied. Kindly consider this application and give me some of the little ones of this town.

that I had consumption and hemiplegia, and a half dozen mortal diseases, but when I got the documents which I have yet in full force, I felt a sense of manliness and confidence and quietude and re-entrenchment, which is a good thing for any young man to have. For the lack of that feeling there are thousands of men to-day in Greenwood and Laurel Hill and Mount Auburn who might as well have been alive and well and supporting their families. They got a little sick, and they were so worried about what would become of their households in case of their demise that their negotiations overcame the skill of the physicians, and they died for fear of dying.

Lord Himself, and all you do in the right spirit for the poor is payment on the premium of that life insurance policy. I give you a paragraph of that policy: "Then said the King say unto them on His right hand 'Come, ye blessed of My Father, for I have hungered, and ye gave Me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave Me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took Me in; naked, and ye clothed Me.'"

In various colors in life, other life insurance policies are written. This one is blue, just shown you, is written in only one color of ink, and that red ink, the blood of the cross. Blessed be God, that is a paid

AN DESCRIPTION.

"Are you going to— to wear that hat to the theatre?" the young man asked.

"Yes, George." And after a slight she added, "But I am going to take off when we get inside."

And that is what confirmed George's suspicions that she is an angel.—
